BOOK
DAY
2 MARCH 2023

What was the first book you remember enjoying?

- Close your eyes, can you picture the book?
- What did you love about this book?
- How did you feel when this book was read to you or you read it?

I wonder what books your teachers enjoyed when they were younger?

Sad Stats ...

- Fewer than 1 in 2 children and young people aged 8 to 18 said that they enjoyed reading in 2022.
- Fewer than 3 in 10 (28.0%) children and young people aged 8 to 18 said that they read daily, the second-lowest level we've recorded since we started asking this question.
- Fewer boys (45.6%) than girls (54.9%) said they enjoy reading in 2022.
- Reading enjoyment decreased with age, from 3 in 4 (75.4%) 5- to 8-year-olds, to 45.3% of those aged 14 to 16.
- Reading enjoyment and daily reading are linked: of those who enjoy reading, half (48.5%) read daily compared with 1 in 11 (9.3%) of those who don't enjoy reading

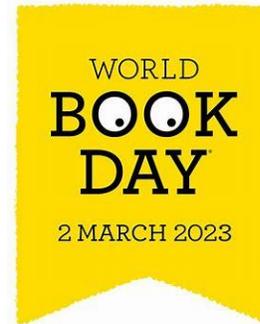

Why do we want to be different?

- Avid readers are open to new opinions and insights – flexibility which translates to a more opportunistic mindset. Clearly, in a professional, or entrepreneurial context, this pays dividends.
 - Books also provide important talking points that can be used to facilitate the exchange of ideas and connect with prominent people, helping us develop congruent social circles and beneficial workplace dynamics.
 - Books, by their very nature, have the added inspirational benefit, providing the motivating force and activation energy needed to change our behaviour and adopt more productive patterns of living.
- Other skills-based benefits of reading include an attribute that distinguishes many successful individuals – communication. Consuming copious books helps to improve our writing skills and diction, helping us to deconstruct complicated ideas and convey them clearly and succinctly.

DAY

2 MARCH 2023

What would your 'dream library' look like?

In my dream library,
there would be animals
that you could stroke while you were reading.
There would also be a hot chocolate machine and lots
of comfy cushions!

My dream library
would be outdoors.
The books would be in the trees and you could climb a tree to pick a book!
There would be hammocks
between the trees that you could lie in to read!
